

Rainbow Serpents

Being part of the stolen generation meant that for most of my life I didn't have a voice. Over the years my connection with other artist has enabled me to tell my story via my art and I feel this has given me a voice. I am now able to advocate for myself and my children and being able to tell my stories and connect to my culture through my art continues to give me strength.

Eve Kitchener
Wiradjuri

Australian Self Advocacy Project

Created in partnership with Saru, First Peoples Disability Network (Australia) and NuunaRon Art Group | www.fpdn.org.au

